

19th Annual Holistic Health Fair (Lewes)

The Holistic Health Fair returns to the Cape Henlopen High School in Lewes, Delaware on Saturday, March 29, 2014 from 9:30 am to 4:30 am. The Holistic Health Fair is an event hosted by the Delmarva Community Wellnet Foundation to showcase local resources that support and enhance health, vitality, and the environment.

The full day event is free to the public and offers exhibits, educational speakers and workshops for the community. This year, for the first time, the foundation is partnering with the Rehoboth Beach Dewey Beach Chamber of Commerce to create this well-loved event. The Fair appeals to a growing number of health and sustainability conscious community members who enjoy learning more about natural health products, renewable energy products and services, and integrative healthcare practices.

Exhibitor Registration is underway for the March 29th Fair. Exhibitors who apply early will receive early registration discounts if registered by December 31, 2013. Last Fair's exhibitors included holistic health practitioners, community health organizations natural products growers and providers, artists, environmental service providers, and renewable energy experts. We encourage representatives from all of these sectors to register early to receive the discount.

The Fair will feature guest speakers, educational workshops, exhibits, in addition to demonstrations of holistic, "green" or natural retail service practitioners at booths throughout the venue. Past Fairs have included demonstrations of massage and bodywork, body-mind therapies, renewable energy systems, martial arts, yoga and meditation, aromatherapy, and skin care. A children's area will engage even the youngest of Fair visitors.

As interest and usage of holistic approaches to health and sustainable living become more commonplace, the Fair offers an affordable, well-located venue for holistic health practitioners, natural products retailers, growers or producers of natural and organic products, renewable energy vendors and services to market themselves or their products. Vendors may enter the Fair for as little as $135.00 per booth for early bird registration (by December 31, 2013) (less for non-profits), far less than most entrance fees at comparable events. Registration after December 31, 2013 starts at $150. Those interested in volunteering their time and talent during the organizational period or the day of the event will be welcomed with outstretched hands.
